Fiorini International stars once again on the international scene

The Marche-based Company took part in Luxepack Monaco Tradeshow, the leading global event for creative and innovative packaging, bringing product and service innovation.

In particular, among the innovations introduced by Fiorini International Group, sewn fabric shopping bags and pockets got an excellent feedback: these items are highly valued and sought after by major luxury brands.

Luxepack Monaco has once again confirmed its important role in the sector: the international tradeshow has allowed Fiorini Group to meet its customers and potential prospects.

Stefano Fiorini, Sales director Shopping & Luxury Divisions Fiorini International, said "We are very happy with the feedback obtained at Luxepack. During this edition, we have seen how Luxepack is the best place of encounter between the most important companies and buyers in the luxury segment which in 2016 saw a turnout supported by Italy, France, Germany and England. For our Group, taking part in the Monaco Show is a fundamental experience as it allows us to evaluate the sector thanks to the participation of the most important international players and at the same time is an incentive for us to offer new services and solutions designed for customer needs." ■
